Fuel Your Body with ALKALINE POWER

The First Performance Hydration Operating System

Your body is underperforming — and you don't even know it.

Hydration Is Guesswork

Hydration today is generic, reactive, and disconnected from real performance.

Consumers are guessing when and how to hydrate — resulting in inconsistent and suboptimal performance.

Backed by science. Powered by intelligence.

Core Scientific Principles

Powered by AForce OS — a real-time system that optimizes hydration based on user behavior, activity, and performance data

Precision Electrolyte Balance

Hydration depends on the proper balance of sodium, potassium, magnesium, and other electrolytes that regulate fluid absorption and cellular hydration.

Rapid Hydration

Electrolytes help improve water absorption through osmotic transport in the small intestine, allowing faster hydration compared to water alone.

Functional Nutrients

Ingredients such as sea moss, spirulina, moringa, and chlorella provide minerals, antioxidants, and phytonutrients associated with cellular recovery and energy metabolism.

Adaptive Hydration Intelligence

AForce dynamically adjusts hydration recommendations using real-time data, delivering personalized guidance based on activity, environment, and performance needs.

Massive Market Opportunity — and a New Category

AForce sits at the intersection of hydration, functional wellness, and performance intelligence.

Category Dynamics

- Hydration is shifting from generic consumption → performance optimization
- Consumers demand clean, functional, and personalized products
- Wearables and real-time data are redefining performance and recovery optimization
- Retail and digital platforms are converging around performance wellness
