

Investment Terms & Equity Breakdown

Minimal Investment $25,000

Investment Amount

Equity

$25,000 investment

0.125% equity

$50,000 investment

0.25% equity

$100,000 investment

0.50% equity

002$

$200,000 investment

1.00% equity

Projected Investor Returns

Exit Valuation	$10K (0.05%)	$25K (0.125%)	$50K (0.25%)	$100K (0.50%)
$100M	$50K	$125K	$250K	$500K
$250M	$125K	$312K	$625K	$1.25M
$500M	$250K	$625K	$1.25M	$2.5M
$1B	$500K	$1.25M	$2.5M	$5M

BodyArmor Comparison: What If AForce Achieves Similar Success?

BodyArmor's trajectory demonstrates the massive value creation potential in the premium hydration category. Founded in 2011, the company was acquired by Coca-Cola for $5.6 billion in 2021—just 10 years later. Early investors saw extraordinary returns on their capital.

BodyArmor Success Story

- Founded: 2011
- Acquired by Coca-Cola: 2021
- Exit valuation: $5.6 Billion
- Early investors saw 100x+ returns

What This Means for AForce Investors

If AForce achieves even a fraction of BodyArmor's success, early SAFE investors stand to realize exceptional returns. The table below illustrates potential returns at a $5.6B valuation.

$25K	$9.3M
$50K	$18.6M
$100K	$37.3M

Why AForce is a Prime Strategic Acquisition Target ?

Prime: $250M+ in year 1

BodyArmor: $5.6B Coca-Cola acquisition

Liquid IV: $500M to Unilever

Oatly (IPO Valuation : $10B+)